

JOB VACANCY

Buyer

Fordingbridge, Hants, UK

Do you get a buzz out of getting the best deal when you buy something?

Are you excited by new technology and gadgets and ever wondered what goes into making them?

If so, Corintech has just the vacancy for you!

We have an exciting opportunity for a Buyer to join our busy and expanding procurement team in Fordingbridge. Working with our offices in Hong Kong and the USA, you will be responsible for buying components for high technology products and negotiating pricing and delivery with suppliers. You will ensure stock levels are maintained, scheduling orders as necessary and progressing purchase orders to ensure parts are delivered on time. No two days will be the same!

You must have good numeracy and IT skills and have great communication skills, both written and verbal. You should be confident, meticulous with details and have good planning and organisation skills. Full training will be provided but a willingness to learn is key.

In return we offer a competitive salary, together with an attractive benefits package. For further details or to apply, please submit your CV to personnel@corintech.com

Corintech is a world leader in the design and manufacture of advanced monitoring and data-logging systems, and provides bespoke design and manufacturing services to other high-tech sectors and market-leading companies.

We are forward-thinking and always looking for cutting edge technologies to keep us one step ahead of the market.

We believe that by supporting and developing you in your career we are creating a progressive work environment where you can grow within the business.

Corintech is a non-smoking/vaping company.
